MISS BLECH CHOSEN AS MRS. TAFT'S AIDE

New Social Secretary Ad- Meeting Is Held at Lee Tenement House Destroyed Letter From President and Concert of Philadelphia Ormirably Qualified for the Position.

One of the burning questions of interest has been settled by Mrs. Taft in the selection of Miss Alice Bleen, of American Republics, to be her secretary. Miss Blech was named yesterday as to the identity of her probable as-secretary when she goes to the White urer, Mrs. James E. Alexander. House just after the inauguration. She work at the bureau having been largely detailed to her care.

Her Qualifications.

House which Miss Blech has been named to fill will be largely of a clerical nature, she is in every way fitted to care for the duties which will come to her. Miss Blech speaks German fluently. having been born in Dresden, and has a fine working knowledge of French and Spanish. She is regarded as one of the most efficient clerks in the bureau and until her appointment as secretary to Mrs. Taft she occupied one of the most responsible positions in that department.

Miss Blech has a charming personal Miss Blech has a charming personality, a cordial manner, and an air of fine distinction. She has a low, gentle voice, and meets strangers with the casy manner of an experienced and cultured woman. Miss Blech is very pretty, with dark hair, large expressive month, and an exceedingly attractive mouth, and an exceedingly attractive smile. She was at her old desk in the department today, although she frankly acknowledged she had completed her work there last night.

Lived Here Ten Years.

The new social secretary of the White House has lived in Washington ten years. Her home at present is in the Lenox apartment, where she and her mother reside together.

Miss Blech takes the new honor which has come to her with exceedingly simple and charming grace. She was selected, not through any so-called influence, but because she has made her abilities felt in the Bureau of American depublics, and through them has at-tracted the attention of practical friends of Mrs. Taft, who were quick to recom-mend her when the wife of the Presi-dent-elect made known her need for a

Among these are the conservation commission, the country life commission, the District of Columbia housing commission, the commission on the reorganization of the Navy Department, the commission of chemists, which sits as a sort of supreme court in pure food matters, and a number of others.

Congress takes the general position

Congress takes the general position that these commissions are useless. On the other hand, the President's friends have been urging upon him that Congress is itself engaged in the business of organizing commissions, such as the currency commission, the immigration commission, the new waterways commission, and others, whose members are appointed from the two houses of Congress.

It is pointed out that the President's commissions are generally composed of men peculiarly equipped for the work in hand, specialists in their various lines.

On the other hand, it is charged that on the other hand, it is charged that specialists in their various lines. On the other hand, it is charged that the Congressional commissions amount to a sort of feather bed for lame ducks to alight upon. Retiring members of both houses of Congress are handsomely provided for with berths on various commissions, without especial reference, it is declared, to their qualifications.

Supporters of the President have urged that the solicitude of Congress about spending money for commissions is a good deal of a frost.
